

FLMC PONY SHOWCASE

This month Mark Patterson's 1968 Mustang is in the showcase!

My Mustang experience started way back in high school. My first Mustang was a yellow 1967 convertible with a 289. I quickly learned what "buyer's beware" meant when it comes to purchasing an old car, even though back in the late seventies the car wasn't really that old. As it turned out, the Mustang had severe rot in the floor pans and several other locations. At the time, the damage was simply too much for either me or my father to handle and I ended up selling the car. At least it taught me the importance of checking the cowl and floor pans before buying a Mustang!

Soon afterwards, I purchased a dark blue 1967 coupe. This car was very interesting for several reasons. Firstly, it was a genuine K code in pretty good condition with only 60K miles. Secondly, it was a highly optioned car. It had a vinyl top, PB, PS, AC and deluxe interior with a floor and overhead console. All this for $2000!! I drove this car throughout high school. I owned it through most of college, although it mostly sat in my parent's garage as I couldn't afford to take it north with me to school. Sadly, my junior year of college I parted with the car for monetary reasons. I have tried on many occasions to locate this car over the past couple of decades with no luck as I didn't keep any paperwork and Florida doesn't keep motor vehicle records that far back.

After many years of looking for my old car, and always being envious of the performance variants of the Mustang, I found myself sitting at an auction staring at a 1968 Highland Green GR500KR. At that time, the prices of 60's era muscle cars were sky-rocketing and I feared if they went up any further I would never be able to own one. Fortunately, the car I liked didn't sell. After pondering it for a while, later on I called the dealer who was selling the car and asked if it was still for sale. After a little haggling, we finally made a deal and I had my first Mustang in about twenty years.

A few years later, the prices of muscle cars softened considerably. Again I found myself sitting at an auction ogling a particular car. I had registered to bid, but "just in case", not really intending to bid. When the price of the no-reserve car stalled at a relatively low level, I thought to myself "what the heck, I'll never get it at this price" so I raised my hand. Someone outbid me by $1000 so I raised my bid by $1000, intending to stop there. As it turned out, my bidding did stop there – because the hammer came down. Now all that was left was calling my wife and telling her we were the proud new owners of a 1969 Boss 429!!! Well, she always said she wanted a red car??
